BELLEVERNON BRIDGE FLOOR IN A VERY DANGEROUS CONDITION

Fox Grocery Co. Truck went Through Timbers This Morning

CAUSED DELAY OF TWO HOURS

One of the big delivery trucks of the Fox Grocery company, in charge of Harry Chester, broke through the floor of the Belle Vernon bridge about 7:30 o'clock this morning, while on the way over to Belle Vernon on the way to Brownsville and Washington.

When the driver felt the flooring giving way under him he put on more gas, but unfortunately his engine stalled and the machine dropped down into the hole when the timbers gave way. While he was in this predicament a truck loaded with coal came up behind him and hit the stranded machine, but no material damage was done.

After working for about two hours, and with the use of jacks, the truck was freed from the wrecked floor and proceeded on its way. In the meantime traffic on the bridge was practically at a standstill.

Because of the fact that the Maple creek road near Bentleyville is closed, due to the work of reconstruction under way, the Fox Grocery company is compelled to send its trucks to Brownsville and thence over the National Pike in order to make deliveries to its customers at the county seat and at other points i nthat vicinity. This morning the truck that met with the accident was on the way to Washington when it went through the floor of the bridge.

The condition of the floor on the Belle Vernon bridge has been very dangerous for the past month, according to statements made by auto and truck drivers, and frequently machines go through and as a consequence are held up for some time while getting out of the difficulty. Auto drivers are compelled to be very careful in driving across in order to miss the holes and weak places, which are many, and thus avoid any accident.

Some few weeks ago the commissioners of Fayette and Washington counties, in a meeting held in Uniontown, awarded a contract to the Ferris Contracting Company of Pittsburg for a new floor in the structure, but work on the contract has not yet begun at the bridge. This same company placed the new floor in the Donora bridge and according to all reports made a very satisfactory job. Just how soon the contractors will begin on the Belle Vernon bridge has not been stated, but it is evident that some action should be taken at once to prevent a serious accident that might occur to any machine crossing the structure.

COAL REMAINS AT VERY HIGH FIGURE

Bituminous coal prices on track at tipple for export still remain at a high figure and operators believe they will hold for some time to come. Coal is selling as high as $10.50 per ton track in this section of the valley, while in and around Uniontown $11 is being paid. The demand for export coal is quite heavy, and just now the United States is being called upon to make up the deficiency in supply from many other fields where labor troubles restrict the output.

SUIT CLUB PROMOTER IS HELD FOR COURT

Before Justice Whitehead, Wednesday evening, Ernest E. Zidell, representing the Thomas Tailoring company of 921 Liberty avenue, Pittsburg, was held to answer to the Washington county courts on a charge of false pretense, preferred by Martin Dietz. The bail was fixed at $1,000, which the defendant furnished.

The case was the outcome of a suit club which has been in operation in Charleroi for several months, and in which the members it is alleged, have received no returns. These suit clubs were supposed to contain 29 members, each paying in $2 per week, and in the weekly drawing one of the members was to receive a suit valued at $58.

It was also testified at the hearing that the collection and solicitors in approaching a prospective member would give him a personal guarantee that he would draw a suit after paying in $8 or $10, but in every instance it is said the guarantee failed.

In the charge made by Mr. Dietz, he testified that the solicitor only a few weeks ago had told him that a man named Foster, at the Charleroi coal works, had drawn a suit the week before. On the strength of this assertion Mr. Dietz continued his membership, and later made an investigation. He found that no man named Foster worked at the Charleroi mine and when Zidell appeared two weeks ago he had a warrant issued for his arrest. The man was taken into custody when he appeared in Charleroi, and gave bail for a hearing, which was to have been held last week. However, it was postponed on two occasions, but Justice Whitehead refused a further continuance over Wednesday evening. Both parties to the suit were represented by counsel.

It developed during the hearing that the suit club has quite a large membership in Charleroi, as there was at least forty-four witnesses present last evening, all of whom are subscribers, but none of whom have as yet received the promised suit. The case will now be fought out in the Washington county court.

Saturday Last Day to Pay Taxes to Vote November 2

Voters who expect to cast ballots for president at the election to be held November 2, must pay their taxes, if not already paid on or before Saturday of this week. Voters who do not pay taxes by that date cannot vote at the coming November election. This applies to all voters, men and women, except those who are voting for the first time on age. All persons registered before September 2 and have in their possession tax receipts are eligible to vote.

The entrance of women into the voting lists has given rise to a number of questions regarding registration, assessing and payment of taxes. A few of the most common of these questions are given and answered below:

Q.—Can a woman who does not own property and who failed to register on September 2, vote at the election November 2, provided she pays the poll tax on or before October 2, and further, provided she can qualify as to her residence?

A.—No. Voters are assessed at time of registration and that period is 60 days prior to the general election, and unless the prospective voter's name has been handed into the assessor, either personally or by some one else, at the time of registration, that vote has not been assessed, his or her name not appearing on the registry list.

Q.—Are women who are property owners and who have paid state and county taxes on property within the past two years, compelled to pay the poll tax in addition before they are able to vote?

A.—No. They should take their tax receipts with them to the polls.

Q.—Can women who are property owners and who have paid their state and county taxes on property, and who are not registered vote on November 2 by qualifying as to residence and presenting tax receipts?

A.—Yes.

Q.—Can women vote on age?

A.—Both men and women, aged 21 years, may vote the first time without tax receipt. All persons more than 22 years of age must have paid tax without the past two years.

All persons who are registered but are in doubt as to the payment of taxes, can insure their eligibility to vote by paying their poll tax on or before Saturday, October 2.

IMPROVING THEIR DOCK FACILITIES

Government permits have been issued to companies to make certain improvements on the upper Monongahela. The Consolidated Coal and Coke company has been granted a permit to build and maintain two ice-breakers to make a harbor for boats and barges and for protection in time of floods and ice at the tipple landing on the right bank of the Monongahela at Gray's Landing; and the General Chemical company to construct a dock and protecting ice breakers and drege in the Monongahela river at Newell, and to dump the dredged material in the river at a point near Allenport. The chemical company has been shipping a great deal of its product by water during the past year, and now wants to improve its dock facilities in order to make it more convenient and safer for the holding of tank boats while being loaded.

LADIES' DAY AT THE COUNTRY CLUB

A gay and festive scene was presented at the Monongahela Valley Country Club on Tuesday afternoon when about one hundred ladies assembled for the afternoon. The occasion was a social affair in which Bridge and "500" were the leading features, and in which most of the guests took part. Favors were awarded to Mrs. John Neuhart of Monongahela in "500" and to Mrs. F. E. Gage of Donora for bridge.

Following the games tea and cakes were served by the committee in charge, consisting of Miss Gertrude Herron and Mrs. Harry Simpson of Monongahela; Mrs. Charles Thomas and Mrs. Karl Miller of Donora; Mrs. W. E. Stewart and Mrs. L. X. Ely of Monessen and Mrs. Edwin McKay of Charleroi.

It was announced by Mrs. Charles Thomas, chairman, that hereafter Tuesday would be ladies' day at the Club when fancy work and cards will be the diversion.

Later in the evening quite a number of the men folks were present and with their families took dinner at the club. A distinguished visitor was former Governor John K. Tener who had been in Charleroi on a business mission. He was highly pleased with the golf links.

BOARDING HOUSES FOR LABORING MEN

The American Steel and Wire company is building two large frame boarding shanties just below Donora in order to take care of housing requirements for laboring men employed in and about the mills there. Two similar houses were built at West Columbia, and these are supplemented by a number of tents in order to provide places for men, and now it is found necessary to add other similar structures at the other end of the town. The new buildings will accommodate a large number of men.

AGENTS FOUND GUILTY OF FRAUD

Joseph Lowenthal, a representative of the Pelican Mutual Life Insurance company of Philadelphia, who was arrested in Brownsville at the Girard House on the 27th of last June, and returned to Clearfield county, to stand trial on the charge of defrauding with worthless insurance policies, was found guilty and sentenced to return the money received from holders of the worthless policies. At the same time the president of the company, Joseph A. Conray, was also found guilty of frand.

At the time Lowenthal was arrested in Brownsville five other men were taken into custory, and all gave bail to appear at the September term of Fayette county court, but it is understood that the cases have been held over until the December term, when they will be arraigned, charged with selling hundreds of worthless policies to people in the Brownsville district.

The notoriety given the Pelican company in Clearfield county in the arrest of their representatives in this district, has resulted it is said in a change of name to the Charter Mutual Benefit Association of Philadelphia.

C. E. DELEGATES WERE ENTERTAINED

Quite a number of Charleroi young folks attended a reception given by Miss Louetta Coulter at her home in Monongahela on Tuesday evening. It was a gathering of the delegates who attended the Epworth League Convention at Mountain Lake Park during the summer. Among those from Charleroi who attended were Misses Mary Welsh, Irene Chester, Hazel Peters, Hazeldell Lambert, Mathe Kelley, Alva Lambert, Elma Lutes, Elva Majors, Priscilla Murray, Anna Watson, Kenneth Watterson, Lester Beazell, William McClurg, J. H. Pearson, and Haroid Beazell.

Under Direction of Mrs. O'Neil of Charleroi, Will Push Active Campaign

EXECUTIVE BODY IS NAMED

The Republican women of Washington county are preparing to take an active part in the campaign this year, and those at the head of the movement to enlist the help and support of the woman electors are busily engaged in formulating plans that will enable the women to act in concert and to lend intelligent aid towards thesuccess of the ticket.

Mrs. Lilhan Hill O'Neil, of Charleroi, chairman of the Woman's Republican county committee, has opened headquarters in room 404, Washington Trust Building at Washington. She expects to devote much time to the active work of organizing the Republican women and will be at headquarters as much as possible until after election. In her absence the headquarters will be in charge of competent persons, hence any woman desiring information may be readily accommodated by calling or making their wishes known by telephone communication, the phone being number 357, Washington.

Mrs. O'Neil and her associates are working enthusiastically for the success of the entire Republican ticket, realizing that in this important year it is essential that all the party nominees should be elected. As the first step towards accomplishing this result, Mrs. O'Neil has appointed an executive committee, consisting of energetic and loyal Republican women from various parts of the county. Many of the women on this committee, while not having eagerly sought the ballot, are now willing to face the responsibilities and duties imposed upon them by the extension of the franchise and desire to bring about a victory, insofar as they may for the Republican ticket this fall.

The following women from this section of the county have been named on the committee, and will act in conunction with Mrs. O'Neil in the work of the campaign:—Mrs. L. M. Crowthers, Fredicktown; Miss Lida J. Gregg, Monongahela; Mrs. Benjamin L. Ross, Monongahela; Miss Minnie B. Richardson, Charleroi; Mrs. Emma Randall, Bentleyville; Mrs. R. H. Ruth, Charleroi; Mrs. James Stuart, Speers; Mrs. Olin Yarnall, California.

MANY OCCUPANTS ARE FOUND IN ONE HOUSE

Health Officer Darby found a small 4-roomed house on the hill yesterday with fourteen occupants, nine of whom were children and five adults, and only one bed in the house. He notified the head of the family that other arrangements would have to be made in order to comply with sanitary regulations.

BASE BALL SCANDAL.

The revelations made in the base ball scandal at Chicago before the Federal grand jury are astounding to the lovers of the great American pastime. While rumors have been current for months, yet the great mass of the people were unwilling to believe that anything was wrong and attributed the stories more to suspicion than to anything of a real or tangible nature.

However, the confessions made by two of the players of the Chicago White Sox, now contending for the pennant in the American league, leave no doubt as to the truth of the statements made in the past that the World Series games were fixed. While no suspicions have been attached to Cincinnati players, the winners in that memorable contest yet the revelations must have the effect of taking away some of the glory they won in that series of games.

The players who fell were the victims of the gamblers, who are always out to pollute anything out of which they believe they can make a dishonest dollar. They have no creed or conscience, and the only flag they are loyal to is the dollar bill. "Get the money" is their motto, and for this end they continually strive. They are always ready to buy or bribe, and this was done in the baseball classic of last year, when they "reached" so many of the Chicago players, thus permitting the Cincinnati team to win the title and the larger end of the money.

All lovers of base ball hope the grand jury will go to the bottom of the affair, and that each and every one implicated in this deplorable incident be brought to the bar of justice, and if found guilty, punished. As for the players who are concerned, if they are found guilty they will be barred forever from organized base ball. It is a question if they will ever be in a game again. By their actions they have sought to destroy what the American lovers of the sport have been building for generations, and their punishment, while it may not be imprisonment, will be banishment and a feeling on the part of the people that they were traitors to their employers and the general public.

THE DAY WE CELEBRATED.

Republicans all over the country celebrated Constitution Day with appropriate remarks and observances. The Republican candidate paid tribute to the Nation's charter in words of solemn import. "Whether it shall endure," said he, 'will be for the men and women of America to determine." It was too patent to escape notice that the Democratic candidate ignored the occasion, but on the day before he characterized the expressions "America First" as synonymous with "Deutschland uber alles." On the day before, also, the class to which Mr. Cox makes strongest appeal recorded its activity by blowing up America's financial center, killing 30 innocents and wounding 200 more Commenting on that outrage the New York Tribune said:

"Candidates for office, even the highest, spread the doctrine that when there is discontent it is the government's fault, and that a corrupt conspiracy exists to gain control of bayonets to oppress the masses."

Such doctrines were held by the Tribune to be largely responsible for the New York dynamiting. Mr. Cox has been preaching those doctrines. He has charged the conspiracy to gain control of bayonets.

Mr. Cox was in California on Constitution day. On that day the political leaders of California informed Senator Harding that a Republican landslide in their State was assured and that he could center his attention on Maryland. They would not tax his strength in carrying coals to Newcastle.

It was on Constituaion day, also, that the metropolitan press published an editorial taken from the great Paris daily, Eclair, which, commenting on the results in Maine as showing that "America's tendency is toward salutary reaction," went on to say:

"President Wilson felt this last month when he launched his encyclical 'culpa nostra' against bolshevism It is universal democracy and the right of self determination of peoples which compels nations today to live with their heads down and feet in the air—in short, all that makes for anarchy and insecurity; all that forms the essence of Wilsonism is likewise condemned by the Maine vote."

NEED OF THE HOUR

At a time when we need to produce more investigations have shown that there has not been as large a production in many lines as there was when wages were lower. This was the result of the inquiry of Franklin K. Lane, former member of President Wilson's cabinet. There has also been a tendency on the part of many employers who were making large profits to forget the human side of their business and to neglect the welfare of their men. Senator Harding strikes at both of these evils in our industrial life, saying.

"We must awaken the conscience of the ignorant and the misguided to the fact that the best social welfare worker in the world is the man or woman who does an honest day's work. We must awaken their conscience to recognize that American business is not a monster but an expression of God-given impulse to create, and the savior and the guardian of our happiness our homes and of equal opportunity for all in America. Whatever we do for honest, humane American business we do in the name of social welfare.

"But it is equally true that we must awaken the conscience of American business to new interest in the welfare of American human beings. It is not enough for America that her business and commerce shall be honest; they must all be humane. Men, women and children of America are not commodities.

"We cannot have the fulness of America until all of us turn again to love of toil and love of production, to respect for honest organization of effort and a willingness to put our shoulders to the wheel. But we cannot have all that love and all that respect and all that willingness until throughout the organization of our industry and commerce there runs the flow of love of men."

The American Legion in convention at Ieveland insists that the government publish the slacker list: also it condemned the action of Secretary Baker in releasing slackers and conscientious objectors from sentences imposed on them at various times by the army officials. Slackers particularly were well treated, according to reports, being given an honorable discharge with back pay and clothing allowance. Now the boys who served "over there" want to know.

Payroll holdups have become so frequent in Chicago that bankers have enthusiastically adopted the suggestion that payrolls be carried in armored cars. Crack rifle shots will compose the crews. This ought to hold the burglars for awhile at least, but the bankers and others will have to go some to keep ahead of the thieves, who are continually on the alert to get easy money wherever possible.

WISE OLD BIRDS

Mr. Cox is either double-crossing the Tammany-Brennan-Nugent-Taggart bunch of Democratic bosses or he is double-crossing the people. Don't think for a moment that he can fool Tammany.

O'HUGH MAY MERGE AS THIRD CLASS CITY

A vote on the merger of Clairton, North Clairton and Wilson borough will be taken at the general election November 2, according to plans made at a conference of councilmen of the three boroughs. If the merger is approved the city of Clairton will be the result. The city would have a population of 12,000 to 13,000, boosters for the movement say. A canvass of the borough shows public sentiment apparently is favorable to the movement.

DENIES STATEMENT MADE BY P. ROSSI

The proprietor of the Cresent grocery at 323 Fallowfield avenue, denies that P. Rossi, who was prevented from unloading a car of grapes in Charleroi on Tuesday, lives at the above named place. Rossi, it is alleged, does stay at times at 319 Fallowfield, but not at the first named number. The car of grapes, by the way, were unloaded and taken to Monessen.

FIRST REAL "MONEY WIZARD"

John Law May Well Be Called the Daddy of All the Get-Rich-Quick Schemes Floated.

Two centuries ago there "reigned" in Paris a greater personage than the young king, Louis XIV., or his regent, the duke of Orleans—a money wizard, whose operations are recalled by the Ponzi speculative scheme in Boston. He was John Law, a Scotsman, who through his friendship with the duke of Orleans, established a credit bank on the theory that money is the cause, not the result of wealth. He obtained for the bank a monopoly of the nation's foreign trade, the profits of which would repay the investors.

In 1716 Law established a private bank with a capital of 6,000,000 livres, with power to issue notes. It became an instant success, and his paper currency became more valuable than the minted currency of the government. Then he formed his company of the west, developing Louisiana territory, with a capital of 100,000,000 livres New Orleans was built. Trade expanded. Shares in the company rose in value until first Paris and then the whole of Europe went mad. Everyone was growing rich. Law became director general of finance for France. But the height was reached in December of 1719, when his enemies, by side schemes began to break him. He suddenly found himself bankrupt. He escaped from France, became a wanderer and died in poverty.

FLOWERS HIDE GREAT GUNS

While the rock of Gibraltar, viewed from the ocean, is impressive, strong, gloomy and forbidding, flowers grow about the steep walls, and the great Victorian batteries occasionally fired, are screened and sheltered by acacia blossoms. Here are concealed 100 ton guns, sinister and threatening, marking the highest achievement in gun development by British engineers.

The north and northwest sides of the rock are honeycombed by fortifications. There is a town and harbor on the west protected by batteries and forts rising from the base to the summit of the rocks. Modern guns of the most formidable pattern frown from the heights. The town is inhabited by a British colony of about 25,000 persons, according to the 1911 census. Everything is under strict military regulations.

Daudet on Gambetta.

Frequently the great man is something of a boor, but it is probable that Daudet exaggerated a trifle when he wrote the following of Gambetta, the great French statesman: "I can still see him entering the dining room, his back bent, his shoulders swaying, his face aflame and one-eyed also. As soon as he appeared all the other equine heads around the table were raised and he was greeted with a few neighs of 'Ah, ah, ah; here's Gambetta!' He sat down noisily, spread himself over the table, or threw himself in his chair, perorated, struck the table with his fists, laughed loud enough to break the windows, puffed all the table cloth toward him, got drunk without drinking, snatched the dishes away from you, took the words out of your mouth and after talking all the time went off without having said anything."

Student's Bookcase.

An excellent bookcase for students is made in the following way: Procure four shelves four smooth boards, 30 inches long and 10 inches wide, and about two inches inch thick. Screw a slat on to the extreme ends of the sides of the shelves to accommodate the text-books. Screw the other slats to the shelves one and one-half inches apart. This will leave an open space of seven inches in the middle of each shelf. There are no slats on the ends of the shelves. Take the long screw from the top of a discarded piano stool and fasten it to the center of the under side of the lowest shelf. Screw the bookcase into the piano stool. The revolving bookcase may be stained to match the student's furniture.

"Come to mother, dear, she'll kiss it and make it better."

Isn't this the regular thing when a child sustains an injury, real or imagined?

Little do they realize, these indulgent mothers and husbands, that in this mock ministration they are but imitating the practice of old time sorcerers who pretended to cure diseases by sucking the affected part. In their superstitious, myth-enamted age they found the people easy prey to their impositions, but today even the baby is skeptical of the curative powers of a kiss on a bruised knee!

Quaint Industries.

Observation of the world's industries reveals some very quaint callings for there are queer habits and strange desires on the part of various races and always there are those who cater to those customs or undertake to supply the wants. As queer a trade or profession as any is that of "tooth-stainer," which flourishes in parts of Asia, where the natives regard black teeth as a crowning beauty. The tooth-stainer, equipped with little brushes and boxes of coloring matter, calls on his customers at regular intervals. In general, the operation is not unlike that of blacking a shoe.

NOT SO TRAGIC, AFTER ALL

Fair Traveler's Emotion at Seeing Affecting Parting Was in Large Part Uncalled For.

The temperamental difference between a restrained and an emotional race occasionally brings about kindred effects through accident. A lady, waiting for a belated train, witnessed a most affecting parting between an aged father and his son, both Italians. The old man seemed in a frenzy of woe. He moaned, raved, lifted his clenched hands toward heaven and shook them despairingly.

"Poor, poor souls!" she exclaimed, compassionately. "The young man going away to seek his fortune and the old man left behind. I suppose he fears they may never meet again. A common tragedy, but it grips one's very heart."

"Cheer up!" briskly advised her companion, who understood Italian. "The young chap is only going to the next town to visit his married sister and the venerable old person is worried because he loaned him his season ticket and wishes now he hadn't promised to do so. He says he knows the boy will lose it, but, anyway, if he does, he'll break every bone in his body when he gets home. That's all."

MONUMENTS OF VAST SIZE

That on Leipzig Battlefield, Though Higher, Less Costly Than Memorial to Italian King.

Leipzig possesses a monument which rises only a few inches short of 300 feet. "The Battle of the Nations" monument stands in the middle of the plain where Blucher routed Napoleon's army One million cubic meters of earth were displaced to make room for its base. It is surrounded by an enclosure a quarter of a mile wide and nearly half a mile long.

Next to the Pyramids it is the highest in the world but it is by no means the costliest. This distinction belongs to the national memorial to Victor Emmanuel II, erected on the Capitoline hill in Rome at a cost of $20,000,000 It took 31 years to complete this huge pile of marble steps, covered with statues, bas-reliefs, and mosaics. Sacconi, the architect, who designed it, died long before the work was finished, but he left models complete in every detail, and his original plans were never tampered with.

Colors Save the Eggs.

We have heard a great deal about protective coloration in nature, and when we consider the advantages which accrue to protectively colored eggs we may wonder why some eggs have remained pure white through the ages, why others are of the most conspicuous greenish hue, and why still others stand out by their spotted or speckled patterns, says the American Forestry Magazine. White eggs are for the most part laid by hole-nesting species of birds like the owls and woodpeckers, and since the eggs are well hidden in their dark cavities it has not been necessary for them to develop protective coloration. The bright greenish blue eggs of most of the thrushes for example, must be hidden in nests which are concealed in dense vegetation and the speckled eggs of the ground nesting sparrows depend for their safety upon the good hiding of the grass-woven nest.

Modern Casabianca.

A fire guard in the Shenandoah national forest not so long ago found himself in a predicament similar to that of Casabianca, although his decision was not so silly. Discovering that there were three bears at the foot of the lookout tower in which he was stationed without arms of any kind, he telephoned for permission to leave at the first chance to get a gun. The district ranger replied that the forests were dry, that a fire might start anywhere at any time, and that he must stay where he was, bears or no bears; and the guard stayed. After a time some one who had "listened in" came to his rescue.—Youth's Companion.

The work an unknown good man has done is like a vein of water flowing hidden underground, secretly making the ground green above it.—Carlyle

MOUNTAINS AFFECT BIRD LIFE

Andes Said to Be Responsible for Number of Species Found in South America.

The richness of South American bird-life is due to the presence of the Andes more than to any other one thing. It is the absence of great mountain chains in Africa, which accounts for the comparatively small numbers of species of birds in that continent. From base to summit, four distinct zones of life—tropical, subtropical, temperate and alpine—are found in the higher Andes, and each zone has species which are confined to it.

It is not only the height of the Andes which affects bird life. In places, for hundreds of miles, this gigantic range may appear as two or three chains, each not less than 10,000 or 11,000 feet in height, and these climatic walls are as impassable to the species living in the tropical or subtropical valleys they inclose as though they extended to the zenith. Isolation is, therefore, added to the factors of climate and sedentariness in the making of the species, and the three combined have produced a greater variety of bird life than is found in any area of similar extent in the world. The American museum of natural history inaugurated in 1911 a biological survey of the Andean region with particular reference to its bird life As a result of the collections and field studies made, the museum is now in possession of large collections and data from the more northern part of the chain.

FAMOUS BELLS OF BOSTON

Not the Least in the Historic Old City Is the One That Was Cast by Paul Revere.

A bell which was cast by Paul Revere still hangs in the belfry of King's chapel, built when Boston was in its infancy. This bell was the one hundred and sixty-first cast by Revere. Besides being a bell caster Revere also was an engraver, a goldsmith and a dentist. Rising above the modest houses is the old North church, from which Revere received his signal previous to his famous midnight ride. Christ church the second Episcopal church of Boston, is situated in the north end, and is an off-shoot of King's chapel. Its spire, designed and built in 1723, has served as a landmark to guide ships into the harbor. In 1804 this spire was blown down by a great gale, and was shortened by 16 feet. The chime of bells, now silent, which hangs in the tower, was made in 1774, in the foundry of Abel Ruddall, of Gloucester, England. Each bell has engraved upon it an inscription denoting its history. The bells, as was common belief in that time, were supposed to possess the power to dispel evil spirits.

Stage and Movie.

To me the joy of the theater is in the attention forced by a skilfully constructed play acted by players of conviction and artistic power. I have often watched an audience coming from a moving-picture theater, and rarely have I seen a look of more elation or spirit upon the faces of the crowd than would result from the perusal of a newspaper. Whereas, after an evening at an interesting play, the audience pours forth in animation; and even though the play may have been a tragedy, emotions have been stirred and minds stimulated until the reaction shows on every face. So long as the human relation is preserved between actor and audience, so long will the acted drama retain its supremacy in any community.—Otis Skinner in the North American Review.

The Wonder of Eggs.

One cannot find among the multitude of wonders in nature anything more marvelous than the development of an egg, writes Elsa G. Allen in the American Forestry Magazine. Whether it be a butterfly which flourishes for a day only to die after depositing its eggs, or a reptile which lazily leaves its eggs with only the warm sand to mother them, or a fish, like the salmon, which, with incredible strength, jumps the rapids to spawn in the upper reaches of rivers, or most appealing of all, a bird which builds a beautiful nest for its treasures, the egg in every case is structurally the same, and the miracle of life unfolds according to the same laws of cell division.

Longitude in the United Kingdom and generally in the United States is reckoned from Greenwich, degrees being known as east longitude and west longitude from that point until they meet in the Pacific ocean at 180 degrees from Greenwich, the opposite zero point, Asia being in east longitude and the United States in west longitude. For the same reason the term Orient is applied to the East and Occident to the West. It may be said that Germany reckons longitude from Berlin, France from Paris and Spain from Madrid, while sometimes it is reckoned in this country from Washington, but, usually speaking, Greenwich is meant.

A Perfect Chesterfield.

"I had a little experience this morning with an extremely polite man."

"Tell me about it."

"I was standing near him in a barber shop while a dark attendant was briskly applying the whisk broom. The gentleman turned to me and said, 'Excuse my dust.'"—Birmingham Age-Herald.

"Makes Cooking Easy"

You Can't Help Liking This Range

The GOLD MEDAL GLENWOOD is in reality a combination range consisting of two complete ranges using different fuels, with neither one interfering in any manner with the other.

Coal supplies the fuel for one, and gas for the other. So far as the use of these two fuels is concerned, it is exactly as though you had a coal range and a gas range. The difference is that they occupy the same floor space instead of being two separate ranges in two different parts of the kitchen.

You may use the coal and the gas at the same time, or either one without the other. You have gas in warm weather and coal in cold weather. But at any time you wish to do more baking or more cooking, you have the advantage of using both fuels and both ovens at the same time.

It responds to your cooking art so quickly and efficiently, you will find that cooking is one of the greatest pleasures in your home.

RACING EVENTS WILL REVIVE OLD MEMORIES

The two-day racing events at the Monongahela Driving park will bring to recollection of many of the older residents the days when the Monongahela Valley Agricultural Association held sway at that place, and of the Fairs which were held every fall, usually in September. Horse races along with agricultural and horticultural displays, not to forget many other features made these exhibitions among the best in the western part of Pennsylvania

PARTY ENJOYS TRIP ON PACKET LEROY

Memories of the old packet days on the Monongahela river were revived the other day when a party of fifteen took advantage of the hospitality of the packet Leroy between Brownsville and Morgantown. The party left Brownsville on Saturday and returned home Sunday afternoon. The trip proved to be most enjoyable.

ROBBERS GET AWAY WITH QUANTITY OF MORPHINE

The drug store of the Crawford drug company, in Brownsville was entered some time last Friday night or early Saturday morning and a quantity of morphine, as well as several dollars worth of pennies taken. Entrance was gained through a rear window.

Patrick Moore of Charleroi, and Catherine Lauderbaugh, of Lock No. 4, were married Wednesday morning at 9 o'clock, by Rev. Father Fries, in St. Jerome's church, with Nuptial High Mass. The witnesses were William Moore and Catherine McLuckie. The bridal couple left shortly after for a few days' wedding tour.

Economy.

Melville Boggs, generally reputed to be the best informed person in the village concerning the affairs of his neighbors was telling a friend, but recently returned after an absence of some years, of the troubles of Susie Smith and Peter Jones. "Susie, she has broken off her engagement with Peter," he said. "They's been goin' together for about eight years, durin' which time she has been inculcatin' into Peter, as you might say, the beauties of economy. But when she discovered, just lately, that he had learnt his lesson so well that he had saved up 217 pairs of socks for her to darn after the wedding she appeared to conclude that he had taken her advice a little too literally, an' broke off the match."

Ivan IV the Terrible.

Ivan IV of Russia was called Ivan the Terrible, because of his extreme cruelty in war and in dealing with insurrections. He was crowned in 1547 and was the first ruler to assume the title of czar. His reign was a continual struggle with the privileged members of the aristocracy, who had controlled the government during his youth. Under the guidance of his "chosen council" and the Sobor, or national assembly, a new code of laws was formed which radically reformed and improved local self-government. He invited learned men and artists to Russia, established commercial relations with England, and near the end of his reign conquered Siberia.

Calmness.

A restless, bright-eyed urchin was scrambling up on the back of the railway seat, and reaching out his arms and legs in all directions. Every few minutes he knocked off the tall silk hat of the fat man in the seat beyond, and presently an umbrella came tumbling down from the upper rack, nearly braining the fat man. When the latter could stand the strain no longer, he turned to the occupant of the seat behind and said emphatically: "Madam, will you kindly look after your son? He is extremely annoying." The lady, already burdened with three other mischievous imps, said in a most casual voice: "Johnny, sit down. The gentleman's nervous."—Judge.

What a Man Is Worth.

The average man contains the constituents found in 1,200 eggs, has iron enough to make four tenpenny nails, fat content to make 75 candles and a good sized piece of soap, not to speak of a bowl of sugar. Considering that eggs are selling for 35 cents a dozen, matches at 6 cents a box and candles for 5 cents each, says the Journal of the Minnesota Public Health association, $562.84 is the actual worth of the constituents of a grown person, to say nothing of what the sugar he contains may be worth.

Way to Victory.

The longer I live the more certain I am that the great difference between man and man, the feeble and the powerful, the great and the insignificant, is energy and invincible determination—a purpose fixed, and then—death or victory! That quality will do anything that can be done in this world, and no talents, no circumstances, no opportunities, will make a two-legged creature a man, without it. Powell Buxton.

FIRST OAK RAFT SEEN IN YEARS

An oak raft containing 9,000 cubic feet, the first seen on this end of the Monongahela river in years, was taken down the Monongahela on Tuesday by the steamer Hillman. The timber was rafted in the mouth of Ten Mile creek, the sticks having been cut many miles from the creek and hauled overland to the stream, to be floated down to the point of rafting. The timber was taken to the Dravosburg Dock Company to be used in boat building and boat repair work. Oak and pine rafts were a common sight on the river at one time, but the supply of timber in the upper valley suitable for boat building has been exhausted long ago. The appearance of the raft on Tuesday caused many of the old-time rivermen and lock tenders to rub their eyes in order to be sure they were not mistaken in what they saw.

BELLE VERNON LOST IN POPULATION

According to recent census figures Belle Vernon is not as large as it was ten years ago, showing a slight decline in numbers. Ten years ago the town was credited with 2372 people, in 1920 the figures are 2312, a loss of thirty. This situation is puzzling to the people of the over-the-river town, who were of the opinion that their borough was steadily increasing in numbers. On the other hand Fayette City shows an increase of 43 in the past decade, the figures in 1910 being 2005 and in 1920 they were 2408.

SOME ASSESSORS PLACING WOMEN IN MILITARY ROLL

A number of assessors throughout the county, so the county commissioners are informed, are insisting on placing recently enfranchised women on the county's military roll, which is now being made up by these officials. There is no authority under the law for placing women on the military roll, and assessors will save themselves a lot of trouble and work by recognizing this fact. While the women have been given the privilege of voting there has as yet been made no provision for their taking up military duties.

MONESSEN MOONSHINERS HAD TO GIVE BAIL

Peter Viviani and Joseph Scales, of Monessen, furnished bail on Wednesday for their appearance before the United States Commissioner on charges of violating the national prohibition law. Complaints were filed against them by prohibition Agent C. C. Gregg. Their homes were raided by Monessen police, who allege they found illicit stills and mash in both houses, and six gallons of moonshine in Scales' home.

WINE MAKING SEASON FOR THE FOREIGNER

Foreigners throughout this section of the valley are now engaged in making grape wine. The grapes have been arriving in car load lots for several days past. These grapes are usually purchased on the co-operative plan, a number of men going together and securing a car. No attention is being paid to the prohibition law, as those making the wine consider it a part of their table necessities.

MOST FAMOUS PARIS SQUARE

The dreams of many men of genius have gone into the making of the Place de la Concorde, in Paris. Gabriel, the architect, constructed the pavilions and balustrades. The equestrian statue of Louis XV, which stood in the square until the Revolution, was the work of Bouchardon. Pigalle, one of his contemporaries, surrounded this statue with figures emblematic of Strength, Wisdom, Justice and Peace. The square received its present form in 1854 from designs by Hittorf. The great statues of the cities were made by four famous French sculptors, each of whom did two figures.

At the entrance to the Champs Elysees, which forms the western boundary of the place, are the famous "Horses of Marly," by Guillaume Coustou, and at the eastern side at the entrance to the Garden of the Tuileries, are the "Renommees" of Coyzevox—Mercury and Fame bestride horses.

In the center rises the obelisk of Rameses II, towering 76 feet, and weighing 240 tons. It is a single block of reddish granite, more than 3,000 years old, and it once stood before the temple of Amenhotep, near Thebes. It was brought to Paris in 1836.

DOGS AND CHURCH WINDOWS

Both in Ancient and Modern Times Animal's Representation Has Been Frowned Upon.

The stained-glass representation of the "Pedlar and his Dog," to which attention has been directed by the discovery of a boundary stone of "Pedlar's Acre," on the site of the new county hall, was removed, owing to the alleged incongruity of introducing the figure of a dog in a church window says the Westminster Gazette.

Quite recently Chancellor Prescott of Carlisle refused a faculty a stained glass window in a Welsh church because the design included a [illegible] dogs used for [illegible]

British Warship's Great Guns.

At first sight it may seem strange that the Hood should carry only the same armament as the Queen Elizabeth, built some eight years before the Hood. As a matter of fact, the Queen Elizabeth's guns are forty-two calibers in length; but the guns of the Hood are forty-five caliber long and have greatly increased muzzle velocity. It is believed that the gun weighs a little under one hundred tons and fires a 1,950-pound shell with a muzzle velocity of 2,600 foot-seconds. Another improvement over the Queen Elizabeth is that the new guns have an elevation of 30 degrees for a maximum range of 38,000 yards. The loading gear has been so improved that the Hood is credited with being able to fire a salvo of eight guns every thirty-five seconds.—Scientific American.

Simple Trick of Artist.

Everybody has noticed that the eyes in some portraits follow one wherever he goes in the room. It is a bit uncanny to move about an apartment and have the eyes of a picture always upon one. Some superstitious persons are afraid to go into a picture gallery where portraits of their ancestors are to be found. The effect is simply an optical illusion and is secured by having the eyes in the portrait looking directly toward the front. Under such circumstances the pupil is necessarily in the middle, with an equal amount of "white" on each side. This position does not vary at all with the position of the observer. No matter where you stand the pupil will be in the middle of the eye and the eye will seem to be looking at you.

Bird Outruns Horse.

Anyone who has traveled through Western Texas becomes familiar with the mesquite tree, or, as it sometimes grows, a shrub. In some places where it may grow to be thirty or forty feet it is commonly known as the chaparral, says the American Forestry Magazine of Washington. Here it is scrubby and grasses into dense clumps, it being the home of that famous bird the "road-runner" or chaparral cock, and other interesting species. It is a form of ground cuckoo, that only takes to flight when hard pressed; while on open ground it can run so fast that an ordinary horse cannot keep up

Illustrated

Waiting for his shoes in a while-you-wait repair shop, he was impressed by the apparent femininity, neatness and self-respect of the young woman attending the counter. He didn't like to see her handling worn shoes. He was wishing she were in another environment. Just then his shoes were passed along from the workman to her. She took them, looked at the tag, called a boy and pointing to the meditating customer, said:

"Take these to that gink over there."

Age of the World.

The reckoning of time among all nations reaches back to practically the same period. Chinese, Indians and Egyptians all assume that the earth was 80,000 years old before it could have assumed the state in which it is now. The oldest book of Chinese annals does not commence its historical record from an earlier time than that of the Trojan war. Neither do the Indians carry back their historical age more than 5,000 years. According to scriptural chronology, in that way of reckoning it, which appears the most probable to most Historians, almost 3,000 years may be added to the Indians' computation.

Legitimate Protest.

Next to disguising a "flivver" the chief pastime nowadays is the efforts of restaurant proprietors to camouflage certain kinds of food to put them over with the trade. So when we saw "Chicken Jambalia" on the menu cards, we were puzzled. The subsequent investigation showed that "chicken jambalia" is a new way of disguising chicken necks. But by any other name a chicken neck is still a chicken neck.—Detroit Saturday Night.
